Having increased our business during the past year, we feel grateful for the liberal patronage bestowed upon the Company thus far, and for its flattering prospeets of future usefulness. The Directors hope and believe, that, by pradence, caution, and a rigid system of economy, they will establish for this Company a reputation for cheapness and safety not surpassed by any Company in the U. MISCELLANEOUS READING.

A GERMAN COURTING IN ENGLISH A story is told of a German who attempted to court in English with the aid of a dictionary: Having obtained an interview with an English lady, who having recently lost her husband, must be open to new offers, he opened his business thus: "Highborn madam, since your husband have kicked de bucket-"Sir!" interrupted the lady, astonished and displeased. "Oh, pardon!—nine, ten thous-sand pardon! Now I make new beginning quite oder begining. Madame, since your husband have cut stick-" It may be supposed that this did not mend matters; and reading as much in the lady's countenance, the German drew out an octavo dictionary and said, perspiring with shame at having a second time missed fire, "Madam, since your husband has gone to kingdom come-" This he said beseechingly; but the lady was past propitiation by this time, and rapidly moved towards the door. Things had now reached a crisis; and if something were not done quickly, the game was up. Now, therefore, taking a last hurried look at his dictionary, the German flew after the lady, crying out in a voice of despair-"Madam, since your husband-your most respected husband-your never enoff to be worshipped husband-have hopped de twig-"." This was his sheet anchor; and, as this also came home, of course, the man was completely and totally wrecked. It turned out that the dictionary he had used -(Arnold's, we think, a work of one hundred and fifty years back, and from mere German ignorance, giving slang translations from Tom Brown, L' Estrange and other jocular writers) - had put down the verb storbem (to die) with the following worshipful series of equivalents:-1. To kick the bucket; 2. To cut one's stick, 3. To go to kingdom come; 4. Hop the twig; 5 To drop off the perch into Davy's locker.

The most terrible storm on record is, perhaps, one which occured at the small village of Chateneuf les Moustiara, in the department of the Basses-Alpes. During service, the village church was struck by three masses of fire, falling in succession. Nine people were killed, eighty-two wounded, all had paralyzed limbs, as well as other maladies. The cure of Moustiers, who had come over to assist at mass, was found, after the first confusion had subsided, lifeless, scarred with numerous surface wounds, and paralyzed. His garments were torn, the gold lace of his stole melted, and the silver buckles of his shoes broken and thrown to the other end of the church. It was with great difficulty that he was recovered, but he suffered from his wounds for two long months, during which time he never slept, and his arms were paralyzed forever. The church was filled with thick, black smoke, through which the only light to be seen was from the flaming of the burning clothes of the poor creatures struck. A young child was torn from its mother's arms, and flung about six paces from her; a youth at that moment, chanting the epistle, felt as if seized by the throat, and was then flung etc., besides supplies of Mutton, Wild Honey, etc., outside the church door; the missal was torn from his hands, and riven to pieces. All the Passengers from Baltimore, Washington, Richmond and the lower country, will leave Alexandria in the morning, and reach Buckton Station by the Managers (for Baltimore, 12 and 12 and 13 and 14 and 15 and 15 and 15 and 15 and 15 and 15 and 16 day. Comfortable coaches will be in readiness to mals in preference to men; and numberless convey visitors to the Springs from Buckton—distance one mile. From Staunton and Winchester have been struck, and human beings left have been struck, and human beings left harmless, in a storm, through perhaps the horse had a rider, the ox a driver, the cow a milker, the dog a master, in the act of caressing him as the lightning fell.
